BIOGRAPHIES

Frederick Clarke

Frederick Clarke is the Director of Mighty Men of Valour which is committed to promote, educate and develop values and ethical principles in all men, regardless of nationality or background, and for men to recognise their role and response to their families, community and society.

Donna Spence

Comedian Donna Spence has performed and hosted at many famous venues such as the Hackney Empire, Comedy Festivals, Tricycle Theatre, Oval House Theatre, Yorkshire Playhouse, Family Weekenders, Rotterdam Carnival and recently at the 2nd annual Jerk Cook Out at the Horniman Museum. She is also a regular presenter on Bright Talk TV, BEN TV and facilitates and delivers workshops on Presenting, Drama, Creative Writing, Stand Up Comedy and Voice Coaching.

S.I. Martin

Specialising in the fields of Black British history and literature, S.I. Martin is a writer and researcher who has undertaken Black history projects for numerous organisations including English Heritage, the National Maritime Museum, the Museum of London, London boroughs of Lambeth, Wandsworth, Tower Hamlets and Camden and the BBC. He is the author of "Incomparable World" and "Britain's Slave Trade" and is the founder of the 500 Years of Black London walking and boat tours. His latest novel "Jupiter Williams" will be published in October 2007.

Mike Oban

Mike Oban is a Writer & broadcaster and a regular contributor to a range of BBC sports and cultural programmes. He is a graduate of the University of the West Indies with a BA Degree in Mass Communication. Mike was also a former editor of UK Gleaner and senior reporter with the Voice Newspaper.

Jacqueline Brooks

Is a former Lecturer in Business at South Thames College, from a Training and Development background. She has lived in the Borough of Croydon for four years.

Jacqueline developed a passion for researching and documenting the Transatlantic Slave Trade history after attending a 'Set All Free' meeting in June 2006. This ignited the flame within her to educate others using visual and textual materials of previously 'untold' stories and bring clarity to the Transatlantic Slave Trade narrative.

Black History Month is more than just a month!
